THE HOLSTEIN IMBROGLIO.

THE HOLSTEIN IMPROBLEO.

The war in Holstein—if it is to be a warwill be a war of succession. The reigning King of Denmark, Christian "X—father of the Princess of Wales and the King of Greece—claims full sovereignty over the Ducby, by virtue as well of traditionary usage as by the treaty of London of 1832, in which the King of Denmark was also formally recognized as Duke of Schleswig-Holstein. This claim has at least the merit of antiquity; for it was in the middle of the fifteenth contury that Christian I of Denmark was daily elected by the people of the Duchlea as their ruler; but he ackowledged the tenure to be distinct from that of his Danish crown, and this provision has ever since been recognized by his successor, inclinding the present monarch, whose title is thus recorded in his prociamation to the Holsteiners, issued on the 4th of this monit: "Chri tan IX, by the grace of God King of Denmark, of the Vandsla and Gotha, Duke of Schleswig-Holstein, Stomarn of the Dithmarshen and of Lauenburr, and also of Oldenburg." It seems clear, therefore, that the relning King is in the direct line of succession to the Duchies, and it is not disputed that, as Duke of Holstein, he has acknowledged the distinct character of his tenure of power in a German duchy by sending a representative to the Federal Diet, by paying an annual quota, and by raising the allotted contingent of troops (about four thousand) for the defence of Germany.

On the other hand, it is claimed by the party of Prince Federick of Augusteaburr—the Duke who now opposes the authority of the King of Denmark in Holstein, and whose pretensions the Diet has voted by a small majority to support—that the change in the succession in Holstein cannot be changed without the consent of the German Bund, because Holstein a German sovereign; that the succession is a part of German Bund, because Holstein a German sovereign; that the male succession in the Duchy has not yet indied, and thus, the Duke of Augustenburg as the legitimate ruler, as the secure branch of the out in Northern Europe will affect the present low prices of grain here, it cannot but have a great influence on the prices of grain in the Cuited States. That the Baltic States will be losed by a blockade of Denmark is costainly to be presumed. The outlet through the Dan-ish Sounds is the only one by which a large amount of grain finds its way to England and other countries. That Denmark will also block ade the Elbe and the Weser, and effectually shut up Bremen and Hamburg, seems likely to take place.
